

CRITICISM AND LOCAL REFERENCES
IN FLORIDA TELEVISION AND NEWSPAPER EDITORIALS

By
THOMAS L. GREEN

A THESIS PRESENTED TO THE GRADUATE COUNCIL OF
THE UNIVERSITY OF FLORIDA
IN PARTIAL FULFILLMENT OF THE REQUIREMENTS FOR THE DEGREE OF MASTER OF ARTS IN JOURNALISM AND COMMUNICATIONS

UNIVERSITY OF FLORIDA
December, 1967

TABLE OF CONTENTS

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS ii

LIST OF TABLES iv

LIST OF ILLUSTRATIONS v

INTRODUCTION 1

CHAPTER

 I. HYPOTHESIS, OBJECTIVES, AND DEFINITION OF TERMS . . . 9

 II. METHODOLOGY AND BASIS OF COMPARISON 22

 III. MAJOR ISSUES AND CONTENT CATEGORIES 32

 IV. RESULTS 48

 V. CONCLUSIONS AND RECOMMENDATIONS FOR FUTURE STUDY . . 72

APPENDIX 81

BIBLIOGRAPHY 85

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH 86

LIST OF TABLES

Table	Page
1) Commercial Television Stations in Florida and Degree to Which They Editorialize	15
2) Comparison of Number of Television and Newspaper Editorials Concerning the Federal Government	50
3) Categories in Which Television Editorials Outnumbered Those of Newspapers	50
4) Categories in Which Newspaper Editorials Outnumbered Those of Television	51
5) Category Enumeration for Both Media	52
6) Comparison of Number of Editorials by Category for Television and Newspapers	53
7) Television Editorial Content by Individual Stations .	55
8) Newspaper Content by Individual Paper	60
9) "Local-ness" of Editorials for Both Media	62
10) Reaction of Editorials for Both Media	63
11) Grouping of Editorials for Both Media	64
12) Grouping of Newspaper Editorials	66
13) Grouping of Television Editorials	66
14) A Numerical and Percentage Grouping Breakdown for Both Media for All Editorials	67
15) Individual Television Station Groupings	70
16) Groupings of Individual Newspapers	71
17) Comparison of Editorial Content for the Tampa Tribune and the St. Petersburg Times	81
18) Comparison of Editorial Groupings for the Tampa Tribune and the St. Petersburg Times	84