Nota histórica/biográfica

Russell Ramsey, (1935-2022), fue un historiador académico sobre la milicia, y también misionero. Era profesor de Estudios Latinoamericanos en la Escuela de las Américas, la Universidad de Norwich, el Instituto de Cooperación para la Seguridad del Hemisferio Occidental, (Western Hemisphere Institute for Security Cooperation, conocido anteriormente como Escuela de Las Américas) en Fort Benning, la Universidad del Estado de Georgia, y la Universidad de Troy. El Dr. Ramsey era experto en asuntos militares y diplomáticos de América Latina, y en historia del cristianismo. Durante la guerra de Vietnam, comandó una brigada de infantería paracaidista. En los 1980, mantuvo un escritorio en la Oficina de Estrategia Militar de Latinoamérica en la Oficina del Presidente de Estados Unidos, Estado Mayor Conjunto, como Oficial de Reserva durante el conflicto en Centroamérica. Se graduó de West Point en 1957 y obtuvo su primer doctorado en Historia de América Latina en la Universidad de Florida en 1970. Obtuvo su segundo doctorado en el Colegio de la Trinidad de la Biblia y Seminario Teológico (Trinity College of the Bible and Theological Seminary), en 1999. Era experto en el trabajo misionero, y escribió sobre líderes y misioneros de la historia cristiana, incluyendo una biografía sobre el corredor olímpico Eric Liddell, God's Joyful Runner.

El Dr. Ramsey fue un escritor prolífico. Escribió más de veinticuatro libros, más de doscientos cuarenta y cinco artículos revisados por pares en asuntos de América Latina, asuntos militares y de ciencias sociales; escribió más de trescientos cincuenta y tres artículos independientes de temas diversos como los Juegos Olímpicos, asuntos militares, salud, historia, religión, biografía, y nostalgia.
